

Steve Virtue,
Senior Director, Public Affairs & Communications
Prospectors & Developers Association of Canada

Steve Virtue has 20 years experience as a practicing Public Affairs and Communications executive. He has a diverse range of experience developing strategy and managing issues and relationships for clients at the municipal, provincial and federal levels. Throughout his career he has maintained senior level positions as a public affairs and communications leader within the public and private sectors.

Steve holds a B.A. (Political Science) and an M.A. Ed. (Administration) highlighted by his thesis which focused on public affairs and government relations strategies for broader public sector organizations. He has been a featured speaker and guest lecturer at the University of Toronto, Humber College, the Fraser Institute and the Ontario's Directors of Education Conference.

Learn more here www.about.me/stevevirtue
Twitter @stevevirtue

Why am I interested in joining the Board at PAAC?

Associations such as PAAC contribute a great deal to our profession and I feel I'm at a stage in my career where I can contribute and give back to both the association and the profession. Public affairs is often mired in nuance and a general lack of understanding of the valuable work we do. I believe I can help improve this position within the context of the association. I believe that my 20 years of senior level experience in politics, non-profits, government and the private sector offer me a unique breadth and depth of experience.